Image: Adobe No matter how many great iPad apps for designers are available, there's one glaring omission that holds the iPad back from being a basic portable design platform: Photoshop. Yes, there was a Photoshop Touch, but we don't really like to talk about it; what we are all waiting for is a full-fat version – or close enough – of Photoshop CC that we can use anywhere. Last year Adobe confirmed it would be providing a full version of Photoshop CC that allows you to edit PSD files on an iPad with the same tools that you are used to on your desktop. And if you're wondering where it's got it, here's some great news: Adobe is now inviting sign-ups to test the beta version of Photoshop for iPad. The iPad version promises all the basic Photoshop tools you'd expect. Image: Adobe From what we've heard about Photoshop for the iPad so far, it's definitely going to be worth checking out. Adobe promises that this will be a real Photoshop experience, using the same code as the desktop version and featuring all the basic tools you'd expect to be there. Basic tools are an interesting formulation; we'll be interested to see if new features like the updated Sensei-powered Content-Aware Fill make it through iPad. The best iPad Pro offerings in 2019 are certain that Photoshop for iPad will not look the same as the desktop version; instead, Adobe wants to deliver a redesigned user experience that's optimized for touch devices and takes full advantage of Apple Pencil and gestures. We want to see it pan out. God, what if you say the wrong thing and they don't let you participate? Assuming you're interested in getting involved and being among the first to try Photoshop on an iPad, the application process couldn't be easier. There is a Google form to fill out, and it just wants to know three things: your name, your email address and a brief explanation of why you want to try Photoshop on the iPad. We love that last piece; it almost makes it feel like a competition. So think very carefully about what you will be talking about before heading over to fill out the application form. Not to miss anything in their to-dos, some people prefer to make a list of upcoming tasks in a laptop, while others have long started using digital technology solutions. Calendar apps are some of the main tools that are worth using to organize our lives and plan your time carefully. Many people have gone to specific tools; however, there are still those who do not use calendars on a daily basis. They may find some applications annoying to use, non-functional, or expensive. In this article, we'll like the best calendar apps to help you stay organized. Before you download And as you are undoubtedly aware, there are all kinds of calendar applications available. Instead of sifting through of them, we have selected the 10 best calendar calendar apps can get. In addition to the glowing reviews from each of them, we considered the following aspects when creating this list: User Interface – How to navigate the app should be smooth and simple. The buttons in the application should be clear, obvious and easy to move around. Sync – whether with other calendar apps or with other apps, syncing apps should be easy and improve the overall experience with the app. More features – Because there are so many options for calendars, many of these apps offer additional features. These app features make you stand out from other apps and give you unique experiences. 1. Any.do Calendar Thich calendar has direct integration Any.Do to-do list, which gives you a unique tandem of two applications. In addition to its extended features, Cal Calendar is easy to use. Event creation is very simple and fast. Additionally, depending on the event name, the application automatically adds contacts and geolocation data to the item description. You can even import your lists and items from Any.do. Any.do calendar is a great option for any type of user. It is very convenient and does not overcomplicate the display method. Another good thing is that this tool is available for free so you can use it without spending a dime for the software. Download Any.do calendar here! 2. Google Calendar Google is the official calendar for Android devices, which has been tested by many users around the world. If you're just now trying to get away from it, consider changing your mind. Since this application is installed on most Android devices by default, many users think that there is nothing special in this program. They're wrong. Google has been updating its calendar for quite a few years now and comes in material design with advanced event features, direct integration into other Google services (such as supported reminders and Google Now), and comes with Exchange support. The program is super simple and will not cost a dime for you. It's a good thing, isn't it? Download Google Calendar here. 3. Calendar Calendar is a relatively new application. It works like a web app for both iOS and Android devices. It's an intelligent app that learns your contacts, schedule, and tasks. It also helps you schedule and organize meetings based on available time intervals. The good thing about Calendar is that it allows you to synchronize with other calendars that you use, such as Apple Calendar and Google Calendar. So you can manage all the calendars you have in one place. Calendar also gives you meeting analysis to give you a clear picture of how you can improve time management. Download Calendar: Meeting & Scheduling here. 4. Calendar Business is aimed at people who use their calendar for business purposes and business task planning. It offers different modes with wide configuration. The application provides the default view mode by month, and events can be marked in different colors. Colors, modes/ sorting can be tailored to your needs (by month, day, year or event). You can also set a multi-day viewing mode to see what things will look like in the coming days. Scrolling up and down moves you up and down by a month, and if you check for a few days, they'll appear in a more detailed form. Day view mode offers hourly scheduling, and scheduling mode provides a step-by-step schedule for a single event. Business Calendar is a great tool for planning/scheduling cases, tasks and events. There is support for recurring events that can be set with a few clicks. After you purchase the software, you can use it to import and export other calendars, delete, copy, or move multiple events at once. Android Business Calendar app may seem a little chaotic, but it works well and is easy to work with if you play with it for a while. The full version of the app is available for $4.99, but you can also find a free version for the trial ride app. Download Business Calendar here. 5. aCalendar aCalendar opens our collection of top 10 calendar applications available on the market today. With its appealing design, easy navigation and great features, it's one of the most popular calendar apps in our list. Some other features include color schemes for each case type (48 colors to choose from), different types of demonstrations, different widgets, monthly stages and much more. Taking this into account functionality, aCalendar is a reliable calendar application that has an easy-to-navigate interface with three display options. Page-to-page scrolling lets you switch between month, week, and day view modes. As you scroll down and up, you scroll through the calendar at intervals consistent with the display mode you selected. In addition to the time scheduling feature, aCalendar synchronizes photos from contact lists or social networks to remind you of birthdays, anniversaries, or any other special dates. The program also supports data transfer via NFC and full-screen widgets, which makes it easier for you to work with any data. The program is available for free, but you can also get even more features if you buy an extended version of the software for $4.99. Download aCalendar here. 6. DigiCal Calendar DigiCal Calendar is very similar to Cal Calendar in that the application focuses on design more than on its functionality. However, this does not mean that the application does not serve a purpose. With this calendar app, you can sync all calendars and view them in different ways. Along with the basic features, this program comes with support for Google Calendar, Outlook, and includes some unique and interesting features. You can add keywords to an image or set a dark theme. The app can even show you the weather forecast for three days. There are many other features that deserve the attention of people who really wanted to use the calendar app. Download DigiCal Calendar here. 7. can be called Application. It claims to be an all-in-one digital solution that has basic calendar features combined with some other advanced features, such as day-specific weather forecasts. The application supports Google Calendar, as well as tasks, widgets, lunar calendar and even Foursquare. Those search calendar applications to cover only everything in its functionality. SolCalendar is a program to consider. There are many interesting things in this application; the program does an excellent job in all-in-one mode. SolCalendar Test – the app is available free of charge. You can try it without purchasing the service. Download SolCalendar here. 8. IRL Event Social Network One of the most unique applications in this list is the IRL Event Social Network app. As you can guess from the title, the main focus of this app is social networking. Unlike other social media platforms, you may consider this platform to work much like Meetup.com. It's a site where you can connect with other people in your area who share a similar interest. IRL is that while providing a convenient calendar for you to schedule events and plan your day. Although because it is a secondary focus, you are missing many aspects of synchronization that other applications have on this list. Regardless, because of this huge social feature, it is worth considering for those who want to make more connections. Download IRL Social Networking Events here. 9. Today Calendar Today Calendar is one of the most hip and edgy calendars in our list. The solution was one of the first that really embraced material design and remains one of the few that adhere to the elegant style. The calendar app offers bold colors, simple controls, and great features. This is not as difficult application as many others; will not eat all the memory of your device. If you're not looking for something complex and too functional, today's calendar is what you need. You can always try the app before paying for it - the program is available for free. Download Today Calendar here. 10. Timepage Timepage is an intuitive calendar application that manages your time in a way that other calendar apps can't. It offers the same kind of features you'd expect from other calendar apps: opportunities to record events, alerts, and reminders, weather, and driving time for a specific event. However, the application goes beyond these features in two ways. The first way is that while the app sends you notifications, it also has a reminder for you for what's coming next. That little extra time allows you to prepare and make adjustments to your day if necessary. The second feature that is more important is the heat map when you go to see the full calendar overview. This heat map shows what days you are most busy and other days when you are freer. This thermal map provides a quick look at roughly to determine what days are good to add more events and other tasks. Download Verdict Searching for the right application to manage different calendars and plan your busy day can sometimes turn into a streak of obstacles. Most of us need flexible applications that can be easily used to manage our hard plan. The application should have all the necessary time scheduling features and be intuitive. Stylish design and unlimited compatibility also matter. It is not always easy to find such a program. The above digital calendar solutions fall into the value of usage category.
